The meeting of the business men

Hondo has long needed just such a body to look after the welfare of the town and vicinity, for its duties include the well being of the entire county. Let every loyal citizen do his part and a new condition of affairs will soon be apparent in this, the banner county of West Texas.

The State Highway Commission has agreed to send a representative and many county judges, farmers and other business men have announced their intention of attending.

Mr. Elmer Rothe and bride arrived Tuesday from Sabinal and went out to Mr. Rothe's ranch north of town where they will make their home. Mr Elmer Rothe is one of our most estimable young men, while his bride, formerly Miss Anna Lyell, is one of Sabinal's fair daughters.

Body of John P. Hawkes Laid to Rest

Brave Young Soldier Reinterred in the Weimar Masonic Cemetery.

Members of the family were advised a few days ago that the body of John P. Hawkes, who died of disease while in service in France and who was buried in that faraway land, had reached New York and would be reshipped to San Antonio, to arrive here Wednesday afternoon. Arrangements were made accordingly.

The body arrived at the time designated, and the funeral service of reinterment was witnessed by one of the largest crowds that ever attended a funeral in this section. An immense throng of relatives, friends, brother Masons and members of the American Legion met the body, which was carried to the First Baptist Church. This commodious edifice was unable to accommodate the crowd, and many had to remain on the outside.

Several beautiful songs were sung and prayer offered by Rev. M. C. Eldson, pastor, after which a touching funeral oration was delivered by Rev. J. E. Strack of Waelder, former pastor of the deceased.

The body was then turned over to the local post, American Legion, and carried to the Masonic Cemetery for interment. Here, with Rev. G. T. Hester as spokesman, the Legion paid a beautiful tribute to their former army comrade.

The Masonic order, of which Mr. Hawkes was a member, then took charge of the services, and under direction of Mr. Geo Cook of San Antonio, acting worshipful master, the impressive burial service of that order was carried out.

Then followed the firing of a salute by Legion members, filling of the grave, decoration of same with many beautiful floral emblems—and "Taps" for the brave soldier boy who gave up his life for his country in faraway France.

The pall bearers were as follows: Honorary—A. B. Rogers, John H. Brooks, A. P. Shatto, Sr., L. B. Mills, R. C. Watkins, J. H. Walsh, E. C. Jonas, C. Jensen, S. D. Mulcahy Sr.

Active—M. Stapleton, E. F. Shortt, Ben B. Holt, D. E. Nail, J. O. Boettcher, H. D. Swearingen.

Active pall bearers for the American Legion were as follows: E. H. Rabel, S. B. Chapman, Eric Dahse, Otto Rose, Jack Brasher and George Lauterstein.

John Hawkes was one of nature's noblest men. None knew him but to love him, and while his stay among the Weimar people was brief, yet even in that short period of time he endeared himself to everyone he met.

A young man of high moral character, with lofty ideals, a christian gentleman, his signal worth was impressed upon all.

He became a member of the First Baptist Church of Weimar some time before enlisting in the service, and regarded the action as his greatest step in life. When his country was calling for volunteers at the opening of the late World War, John P. Hawkes was one of the first to offer his services.

He went with Company F 7th Engineers, and from time of enlistment up to the time he was stricken down by pneumonia, he never failed to respond to the call of duty. Life in the engineering corps of the army was hazardous, called for many sacrifices and hardships, but his officers and soldier comrades say John Hawkes never faltered, never failed to respond wherever and whenever duty called. Exposure in bad weather brought on pneumonia, and his death soon followed. Life was sweet to John Hawkes, as it is to us, but being a true christian, he went into the presence of his Creator with a smile on his lips, knowing that all was well and that it would be only a question of time until the dear loved ones at home would join him in the Celestial City above, where partings are no more.

John Hawkes was a son of W. H. Hawkes and wife of Lacoste. He is survived by his parents, three brothers, George T. Hawkes of this city and Fred and Ernest Hawkes of Lacoste, and six sisters, Mrs. D. J. Herzog of Killy; Mrs. Ira Burdett of Uvalde; Mrs. A. H. Ahr and Misses Ruth, Theresa and Eva Hawkes of Lacoste.

The heartfelt sympathy of all our people goes out to the bereaved ones.—The Weimar Mercury.

HONDO, TEXAS, JANUARY 29, 1921

INSPECTOR VISITS SCHOOL.

Last week Mr. C. M. Rogers, State Inspector, visited the school and, because of examinations, he was disappointed in not being able to view the students in recitations.

Nevertheless, he made a thorough inspection of all written work. In English, he was well pleased with the note-books and themes, but recommended more oral work. It is very likely we will get our affiliation in English-4 if the good work keeps up.

In Science, he was especially pleased with the Physics experiments, saying that such neat work and good figures were rarely seen. Our apparatus was pronounced adequate and in good condition.

The Math. work was complimented on its thoroughness, and he stated that the Algebra classes were in advance of most of the schools in Texas.

Our library was stated to be in fine condition and we were complimented on having such a wide range of books. Everything was in a fine way in the History department, excepting the Freshmen mapbooks which were a little behind.

Indeed, we were complimented right and left, so we can't remember our faults just now. However, an official report will be out in a few days.

GIRLS TAKE A FALL.

The unexpected happened Friday, January 14, when Yancey High defeated our girls in basket-ball. Hondo High was out of practice, but nevertheless we were confident in our team.

After the first few minutes of play, our girls saw that they had to fight to win. But the court was against them, and the game progressed with Yancey always in the lead. The first third ended six to one in favor of Yancey.

The next two thirds showed better play, the girls becoming more settled. The playing put up by our girls was not as good as that they usually show.

Willie Mae Gaines was Hondo's outstanding player. Her never-failing passing was a thing of wonder. She saved Hondo from a more humiliating defeat by blocking Yancey's passing while in her territory.

Nora Saathoff was the whole of Yancey's forwards, throwing in every point made for Yancey. However, her guarding done was exceptional. The only fault in Yancey's play was her roughness. She was constantly pushing or tripping.

H. H. S. GOAL TOSSERS MEET WHIRLWIND AT YANCEY.

Hondo High saw her hopes for championship slowly sinking during the game at Yancey, January fourteenth. Yancey High was strong and fast. We recognized in her a superior team soon after the game began. However, our boys put up a stiff fight.

The first half started with a rush, knocked our boys off their feet, and before they could regain control, Yancey was many points ahead. The wind and goals were against Hondo's forwards, and our guards, unused to the hard, slippery court, could not hold Yancey's dodging forwards. Just when Hondo began working, the half ended with Yancey far in the lead.

During the intermission the boys received little encouragement, and went back on the court hoping only to keep Yancey from getting a greater lead. Yancey, out of possession of her favorite goal, did not continue the sensational playing of the first half. Also, Hondo had settled down and this half was the best part of the game. But Yancey's lead was too great to be overtaken, and the game ended 27 to 10.

Yancey showed superb teamwork. Individually, the playing was good also. Earnest Hart was the star of the game, ringing eighteen of the twenty-seven points scored.

Hondo's playing was not much better than the average, though streaks of sensational playing were seen occasionally.

GOVERNOR Neff's administration starts out under favorable auspices and promise of a businesslike, Democratic regime. His smashing of the precedent of an exclusive social function at the inaugural ceremonies and going back to the free, informal ways of Democratic simplicity is a good omen. Here is wishing more luck to him.

Roger Babson said: "Strong men breast the current. Weak ones are carried down-stream by it. If you have goods to sell, tell the people. They'll buy if the goods and price are right. All my business life I have spent more money for advertising whenever a business slump came along than in normal times and if I didn't get ahead in a race I kept from slipping back and was in a position to shoot ahead of my competitors the moment conditions changed. 'Run as fast as you can to stay where you are' will pay big, even if it doesn't pay immediate dividends. It pays to advertise."

"WHEN every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields and meat from his own pastures, and disturbed by no creditor and enslaved by no debt, shall sit amid his teeming gardens, and orchards and vineyards, and dairies, and barnyards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus, and selling it in his own time, and in his chosen market, and not at a master's bidding—getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt, but does not restore his freedom—then shall be the breaking of the fullness of our day."

—Henry W. Grady.

THE West Texas News of Del Rio is voicing a very timely protest against the pernicious activities of certain officials who, clothed with a little brief authority, are holding up automobiles along the highways of the border and searching them for smuggled liquor. It seems that no car is safe from such interference, and that the inmates of cars so held up have no means of determining whether those accosting them are officers of the law or hold-up men until after they have surrendered. Naturally peaceful, law-abiding citizens object to such high-handed procedure, and, if it has not already done so, the practice will sooner or later lead to the sacrifice of innocent life. The American people are a people jealous of their rights to freedom of person and property, and it were better that the ninety and nine guilty should go unpunished than that one innocent man should have his personal, legal rights violated by those sworn to uphold the law.

AFTER six years of successful administration of the affairs of the State Department of Agriculture as Commissioner, Fred W. Davis retired to private life on the 18th instant. His administration has been beset by many difficulties, pecuniary financial support by the legislature and petty jealousies from other forces that should have been his enthusiastic helpers and co-laborers in the great enterprise of advancing Texas Agriculture. But through it all he kept his head and steered an unflinching course of constructive endeavor. He retires with the confidence of a larger number of Texas farmers than was probably ever accorded any other retiring Texas official, and he has the love of his entire official family with whom he was intimately associated. With his statesman-like grasp of public questions and his vision of the needs of the State, we opine that he will not be long permitted to enjoy his voluntary retirement.

Fletcherized Farm Facts

By FLETCHER DAVIS.

This is the time of year to plant trees. Nothing adds more to the attractiveness of a home than well placed shade trees; nothing contributes a more wholesome part of the food supply of the family than a good orchard. Plant trees now.

In transplanting trees, whether from the forest or nursery, care should be exercised not to unnecessarily bruise them either in stem or root. Many valuable trees are spoiled by wanton carelessness in handling them.

In transplanting trees, the holes for planting should be prepared in advance so that there may be no needless drying out of the stock while waiting to prepare the holes. The holes should be wide enough to permit such roots as may be on the stock to be placed in a natural position, and they should be deep enough to permit the setting of the tree just a little lower than it stood in the nursery or forest. The soil should be firmed around the roots so that there will be no air spaces under or around the roots, it should be well moistened while being firmed, and the top surface should be covered with well pulverized dry soil.

If there is permanent water sufficiently near the surface for their roots to reach it and this water is covered with a soil that can be permeated by the roots in their search for water, pecan trees will grow almost anywhere in Texas if kept growing by irrigation until the roots reach this permanent water level. They make attractive shade trees and in a few years produce a valuable crop of nuts. Plant pecan trees.

Have you put the implements and the harness in shape for the coming rush of the crop season. A broken chain or a worn out bearing mended now, or a few extra bolts or other parts that may be needed in an emergency laid in now—everything ready and every thing in its place—may save costly and vexatious delays later on when time is valuable.

Open up those choked up drainage ditches and fill up those low or broken terrace embankments now. Do not wait until the heavy spring rains have torn them to pieces.

Plant good seeds. Plant the best you can secure. But do not expect because the cotton seed you plant came from cotton that produced an inch and an eighth staple that you can plant them on poor, exhausted land and get the same staple. You would not starve a pure-bred Poland-China in a dry pen and expect its pedigree to make a five hundred lb. porker of it, would you? Well, plants must feed in order to produce, just the same as animals, so do not expect the seed's pedigree to make up what "pore" land is lacking. You are liable to be disappointed.

The greatest problem confronting us in our farming plans for the present year is to determine what crops will be profitable. It is puzzling the most sagacious. Well, there are certain quantities of food and feed that must be consumed on the farm. If these are produced on the farm, the farmer as a producer is sure of a market for as much as is consumed. And, as a consumer, he is sure of securing what he produces for his own consumption at its production cost. In this way operation costs are reduced to the minimum, the margin for profit on the money crop is widened, and the burden of dealer's profits and carrier's charges for transportation—burdens growing heavier all the time and which must be paid when you buy—will be avoided. Plan your farming operations carefully—and plan now.

One way of reducing production costs is by producing more to the acre, and one way to produce more to the acre is to feed your plants with fertilizer. Do not allow your barn yard manure to go to waste. Save it and apply it to the land and increase your per acre yields. Plowing under the stubble instead of burning it off helps some.

Every farming community should have its farmers' institute, a club organization for meeting together at stated intervals for the purpose of studying the farming problems peculiar to the community. If you need help in organizing, the State Department of Agriculture will help you, and that free for the asking.

Some Views of Commissioner Terrell Briefly Stated.

I am profoundly grateful to the people for their expression of confidence. I promised them an honest, competent and economical administration. I advocated the consolidation of the Warehouse Department of Agriculture, and stated that I could save the State $50,000 a year in the administration of the two departments, and this promise still holds good with me, and if the Legislature will carry out this recommendation, I will prove it. There is no more use for a Department of Agriculture and a separate Warehouse Department than there is for two Treasury Departments, or two Land Offices. The people elected me on this platform, and I want a chance to carry it out.

It shall be my purpose to select the best qualified men and women that I can get to assist me—

To enforce the laws as written.

To undertake the establishment of a better marketing system.

To aid the producers in their efforts and in their rights to price their own products.

To give less advice and more assistance.

To cut out duplication and avoid friction, when the Department of Agriculture is responsible for duplication.

Cotton and cotton seed have been selling below the cost of production for some time.

Farmers are under no moral obligation to feed and clothe the world for less than cost, and unless they receive a profitable price somebody will soon go hungry.

I shall advocate, and trust that the farmers will adopt the policy of reducing production to the lowest possible point, until they are better paid. The cotton acreage should be reduced one-third or more, and this much actual reduction will immediately advance the price.

I earnestly desire the co-operation of all agricultural agencies, to the end that duplication may be eliminated, strife and friction avoided and the best results obtained. Life is too short, time too precious and money too scarce to waste in fighting men. I prefer to help them.

GEO. B. TERRELL.

Was Very Weak

"After the birth of my baby I had a back-set," writes Mrs. Mattie Crosswhite, of Glade Spring, Va. "I was very ill; thought I was going to die. I was so weak I couldn't raise my head to get a drink of water. I took . . . medicine, yet I didn't get any better. I was constipated and very weak, getting worse and worse. I sent for Cardui."
